

Coming September 2022

Stonerise Summersville

Stonerise, one of West Virginia's leading providers of transitional and skilled nursing care, and WVU Medicine Summersville Regional Medical Center (SRMC) are partnering to open a new care center in Summersville, WV. Stonerise Summersville will expand and improve health care to Nicholas County citizens as they age.

The approximately 70,000-square-foot, 90-bed, transitional and skilled nursing center is the first "COVID-19 influenced" center built in West Virginia and possibly the country. It will serve short-term and long-term transitional and skilled nursing patients, as well as people with Alzheimer's.

"The pandemic afforded us an exceptional opportunity to strategically consider how best to design and construct a new care center to be adaptable and uniquely built to protect against future infectious disease outbreaks," said Stonerise Chief Executive Officer, Larry Pack. "This new state-of-the-art center will create a template for future development, and we are excited to partner with SRMC and the City of Summersville to provide a variety of short and long-term care services to this community."

The new care center will initially employ 130 people—including skilled clinicians, physicians, nurse practitioners and a variety of other administrative, culinary, maintenance and patient care roles. SRMC's current skilled nursing staff will join the nearly 3,000 team members part of the Stonerise Network. Stonerise Summersville is expected to begin welcoming patients in September 2022 and will be located on Professional Park Drive in Summersville, which was selected specifically to be located close to downtown as well as the hospital.

The center's construction is well underway. It is thoughtfully designed with Alzheimer neighborhoods and dedicated hospice suites. Stonerise will apply for certification for a Certified Alzheimer's/Dementia Special Care unit—making it 1 of 10 statewide. Stonerise Parkersburg and Stonerise Morgantown operate such units today.

The design blends aesthetically into the Summersville community and recreational culture, with a mountain lodge feel to both the interior and exterior. It will be a leading-edge, modern center across all aspects, from amenities and technology to expansive common areas. It features all private rooms, multiple small gathering spaces, more natural light and investment in outdoor spaces, including an outdoor therapy gym. The operations and clinical programming will also promote patient and team member care quality and emotional health.

Once the initial 90-bed care center is complete, Stonerise's vision is to construct a detached, 14-bed, assisted living cottage on the same campus. In addition to Nicholas County, Stonerise Summersville will serve patients in Braxton, Clay, Fayette and Webster counties.

Stonerise will actively recruit for open positions beginning spring 2022, offering competitive compensation and benefits packages, paid time off, tuition reimbursement, 401k and more.
